Berlin – East Side Gallery

HOTEL INDIGO BERLIN - EAST SIDE GALLERY

On the banks of the Spree lies a neighbourhood that wears its heart on its sleeve. It's a place where you'll find stories around every corner and on every wall. If you know where to look you can read this district like a book, unlocking its artistic, musical and architectural stories. Just around the corner is the extraordinary open air East Side Gallery, a 1.3 kilometer-long stretch of the old Berlin Wall, covered in beautiful art works. Similarly, as you walk towards the Wrangelkiez area you'll see street art on all sides, including giant stencils and kaleidoscopic, building-sized murals by the internationally-renowned Blu. A new vogue for 'paste-ups' – pre-made posters and designs which are stuck to flat surfaces with wheat paste – has seen a whole new roster of lesser-known artists enter the fray too. And then there's the 30 meter tall Molecule Man sculpture by Jonathan Borofsky, a colossal aluminum tribute to the reunion of the two sides of the city. The Indigo Berlin City East Side Gallery has the cool and urban Gallery Rooftop Bar with a stunning view over the Spree as well as the Gallery Restaurant with creative German tapas combined by locally brewed Craft beer.
